WESTERN REGIONAL CONFERENCE ON PROBLEM GAMBLING AWARENESS
FOCUS ON THE FUTURE

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Dear Conference Attendees:

Welcome to the seventh Focus on the Future Conference, the Western Regional Conference on Problem Gambling Awareness. This is an opportunity for us to learn from experts across the country on every facet of treating problem gambling, from prevention to ethics, to cultural competency, and developing impactful programs and delivering services. In addition, it is a place where you can exchange your ideas, experiences, and knowledge to become a collective voice in raising awareness on problem gambling and the importance of gambling responsibly.

As technology advances rapidly, it is our responsibility as stakeholders to consider and discuss the impacts that new games, devices, and access to gaming have on both the industry and the general public. This conference is the perfect vehicle to start that conversation, as treatment and healthcare providers, gaming industry members, educators, researchers, prevention specialists, and policy makers join together to collaborate on one of our state’s, and our region’s, most serious public health issues. By joining us, you are an important part in sharing relevant messages about problem gambling in our communities.

Together, we can learn more about the resources needed to assist those affected by problem gambling and help reduce the stigma surrounding this very serious disorder. Thank you for attending Focus on the Future. With your help and participation, we can make a difference in our communities, state, nation, and world.

Sincerely,

Brad Owen
Washington State Lieutenant Governor
Honorary Chair

Brad Owen was elected as Washington State’s 15th lieutenant governor in 1996 and re-elected in 2000, 2004, 2008, and 2012. He has dedicated his term of service to providing leadership in the field of public health and safety, with an emphasis on substance abuse and prevention.
A MESSAGE FROM TY LOSTUTTER, PHD
EVERGREEN COUNCIL ON PROBLEM GAMBLING BOARD PRESIDENT

On behalf of the Evergreen Council on Problem Gambling, welcome and thank you for joining us for our seventh Focus on the Future conference. This year we are pleased to expand our sessions into the very important realm of cultural competency, as well as continuing to focus on the needs of special populations, innovative treatment approaches, and the psychology and neurobiology of problem gambling. It is our hope that through these disciplines and areas, we will address emerging issues and best practices in problem gambling awareness, prevention, and treatment.

The increase of available technology brings with it an increase of access to gaming and gambling. We are fortunate to have several sessions and discussions devoted to these topics, to understand how social gaming and social media are intersecting with traditional gaming industry practices and what that means, especially for vulnerable populations such as youth and seniors. Additionally, we will focus on cutting-edge science to see what processes occur in the brain around problem gambling and how that can better inform treatment strategies.

It is our hope that this conference will assist each of you by providing you with the latest information, allowing you access to a host of experts in the fields of gambling awareness, prevention, and treatment, and, perhaps most importantly, a forum for you to learn from one another. Again, welcome and thank you for participating in the 2015 Focus on the Future conference.

Sincerely,

Ty Lostutter, PhD
President, Board of Directors
Evergreen Council on Problem Gambling

For more than a decade, Dr. Lostutter’s work at the University of Washington has focused on the etiology, prevention, and treatment of problem gambling and other addictive behaviors. He and his colleagues were the first to examine problem gambling among youth and young adults in Vietnam, the results of which have been recently published in the journal Youth & Society. In addition to problem gambling, Dr. Lostutter also conducts research on substance use, HIV prevention, and cultural issues.

Concurrent Breakout Sessions

Clinical / Behavioral / Integrated Care

Thinking About Co-occurring Symptoms Among Problem Gamblers

Ruby Takushi, PhD

Through lecture, discussion, and interactive exercises participants will discuss ways to conceptualize co-occurring symptoms with a particular eye toward understanding addictive behaviors. This session will also examine recommended principles of recovery from mental health symptoms that include problem gambling and interventions aimed at addressing co-occurring symptoms among problem gamblers.

Prevention / Outreach

Focusing on the Future: Problem Gambling and Healing the Family System

Isabelle Duguay, MA, LPCC, PCGC

Family members and friends can be directly impacted when someone has a gambling problem. This session will provide data on the impact of problem gambling on the family unit, followed by an interactive discussion of best practices and treatment strategies for family members and friends of problem gamblers.

Community / Culture

Strategies and Barriers to Working with the Latino Community

Carlos Reinoso, MS, LOS; Victor Ortiz, MSW, LADC-I, CADC-II; Janese Olalde, M.Ed, QMHP, CADC-II, CGAC-II

This breakout session will discuss cultural issues for Latino clients that affect the counselor-client relationship. The panel will discuss how to incorporate specific cultural issues in the assessment and planning of care for Latino problem gambling clients, and consider approaches to provide treatment that are Latino-sensitive.

11:45 - Noon

Break / Exhibits

Noon - 2 pm

Lunch Plenary

Adult ADHD, Brain Science, and Gambling Disorder

Presented by: Rory Reid, PhD

Research indicates a disproportionate number of problem gamblers also meet diagnostic criteria for adult ADHD. There are unique aspects of this comorbidity that can be challenging for mental health providers. In this presentation, Dr. Reid will discuss assessment issues for ADHD based on the DSM-5 criteria among problem gamblers. The latest findings from the scientific literature and brain science about ADHD will also be addressed. Finally, Dr. Reid will offer pragmatic solutions and empirically supported interventions for problem gamblers with ADHD.
Evidence shows that most individuals who participate fully in problem gambling (PG) psychosocial treatment benefit from it. But a key challenge is engaging and retaining them in services long enough to have a positive impact. The factors that lead to good outcomes in behavioral health care are increasingly better understood. The therapist's contribution to the therapeutic alliance appears to be the single biggest factor that can be modified to reduce dropout rates and improve outcomes. And research strongly suggests that the client's perception of the therapist's contribution to the therapeutic alliance is a critical factor. This improved understanding led to the development of Feedback Informed Treatment (FIT). In FIT, the client provides very brief written feedback to the therapist each week on the therapist's performance and any changes in her/his symptoms. The client and therapist review this feedback together and use it in treatment planning. This workshop will explain the principles and practice of FIT, demonstrate outcomes with PG, and share the experience of using a web-based program to implement FIT in two Oregon PG clinics.

Financial Management: Money Matters in Problem Gambling Treatment
Isabelle Duguay, MA, LPCC, PGGC
Participants explore the emotional meaning of money and how personal beliefs and values surrounding money can cause dysfunction in the way clients deal with money. We will review common barriers manifested by clinicians, which impact them in helping clients explore their finances. Participants will also learn therapeutic tools to use in counseling sessions to help clients explore their distorted thinking with money and gambling addiction.

Problem Gambling: The Hidden Addiction
Victor Ortiz, MSW, LADC-I, CADC-II
This workshop is aimed at identifying the relationship of problem gambling, mental health, and addiction, as well as effective strategies in integrating problem gambling services. With the DSM–5 reclassification of Gambling Disorder, it creates a clinical opportunity in the treatment of addiction. This training is aimed at exploring the new diagnostic criteria of Gambling Disorders, as well as exploring its relationship to clinical practice. This workshop will explore best practices and identify strategies for managing treatment barriers.

Presented by: Scott Breedlove, MS

This upbeat motivational session will help to remind attendees that what we do every day impacts lives and makes a difference, and to enjoy every moment of it. We are all on a journey of learning and if we are watching closely, there are unique moments that teach us valuable life lessons. These lessons can provide insight into the behaviors of the clients we serve.

Addressing Cognitive Distortions and CBT/Mindfulness Approaches
Sheryl Anderson, MS, BCC, LADC, ACR-MN, NCGC-II

Several cognitive distortions, including superstitions, attributional biases, and beliefs in control contribute to the development and maintenance of disordered gambling. This session will focus on the cognitive distortions associated with various types of gambling along with an introduction to therapeutic interventions that reinforce the randomness of gambling, drawing attention to distorted thinking to improve treatment outcomes.

Apprehensive: How the Lines Have Blurred Between Games & Gaming, and How to Protect Our Most Vulnerable
Julie Hynes, MA, CPS

In this presentation, we will examine the rapidly-shifting world of technology that has outpaced even many experts’ abilities to keep up. From video games to social network gaming, we will look into recent trends with regard to online and mobile technology and play, and how the lines have become blurred between traditional “games” and gambling. We will look into specifics such as development of games that are more attractive to younger populations, laws (and how kids work around them), similarities and differences between various platforms and game play, different methods of incentives, and forms of payment. Apprehensive: How the Lines Have Blurred Between Games & Gaming, and How to Protect Our Most Vulnerable

Julie Hynes, MA, CPS

(continued from previous page) We will examine the research on gaming disorders and gambling disorders—including similarities, differences, and common risk factors and vulnerable populations (and discuss the DSM-5). And we won’t just stay stuck in the problem—you will be equipped with practical and evidence-based tips and tools that aim at protecting and advocating for vulnerable populations, with a special focus on youth and those in addictions recovery.

The Rest of the Story...

Scott Breedlove, MS

This session describes how each client is living out their life story and often when we first meet them, the current chapters aren’t very good. We have an opportunity to help each client start a new chapter and write the rest of the story of their life. This is a motivational and humorous session that encourages people to continue the work they are doing.

Presented by: Members of the Recovery Community

Celebrating successes and sharing recovery stories is an important way for the recovery community to help broaden awareness and educate others about addiction, treatment, and the journey that is recovery. The courage to share these stories is, we hope, matched by the positive impact they make on all of us who work in the fields of problem gambling treatment, prevention, training, and support.
